The lifted nose of lime and piquant spice aromas is also decorated with sharp mineral notes and notions of petrol.

An off-dry surge of citrus-infused flavours explode on the palate with lemon curd and lime cordial providing pizzazz along with delicious accoutrements of melon, minerality and under-ripe orchard fruit. It's medium-weight with a bountiful, lip-smacking finish.

Divine sipped on its own, it pours well with grilled or pan-seared fish, steamed mussels or breaded and skillet-fried calamari.

Vineyard Update

Apr 2021

We have been busy in the vineyards preparing for the Spring season. All cane tying has been completed in all of our estate vineyards. We have repaired the trellis and set all of the catch wires. We have also distributed nutrients throughout the vineyards. Our macro nutrients are: Nitrogen, Phosphorus, Potassium and our micro nutrients are: Sulphur, Boron and Manganese.

Bud break is imminent which means we are hoping that temperatures continue to rise and the frost stays away. Without access to wind machines in our vineyards, we will be crossing our fingers that we don't experience any further frost events. Luckily, the air typically flows off the escarpment and there is rarely any pooling of very cold air on the Beamsville Bench, which is a more common phenomenon on the flats in the Niagara-on-the-Lake appellation that can result in damage to susceptible buds. We should be past the frost, looking at the extended forecast, but never say never!

NEW Riedel Glassware

The Winewings Decanter is a new and elegant re-creation of Riedel's Swan decanter. The long and graceful neck features a lavender stripe that is pulled from purple crystal introduced into the molten glass when the decanter is initially formed. As part of the reimaging, the design now includes an indented handle for easier pouring.

Retail Price: $750.00

Newly released for 2021, the Altitude Matters decanter is a classic Riedel design with a new twist: the profile of the Kaiser Mountains in Tyrol, Austria. This stunning mountain range has been the backdrop for the last decade of the Riedel family and is only a short drive from the handmade factory. The eye-catching shape is ideal for decanting younger wines and its wide base ensures optimum aeration while the angled lip guarantees and easy pour.
